12.2 FAMILY & MEDICAL LEAVE

As required by law, {Company} offers leave under the federal Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA). Under FMLA, an employee may be eligible for an unpaid family and medical leave of absence under certain circumstances, if the employee has worked for the company for at least 1,250 hours for 12 months and works within 75 miles of 50 or more company employees.

12.2.1 Reasons for FMLA Leave

Under FMLA, eligible employees may take leave:

- for the birth of a child or to take care of a newborn;

- for placement of a child into adoptive or foster care, within one year of the placement;
- to care for a spouse, child, or parent with a serious health condition;
- to care for the employee's own serious health condition that makes the employee unable to perform the essential functions of his or her job;

12.2.2 Length of FMLA Leave

Except for military caregivers, the maximum amount of FMLA Leave will be 12 workweeks in any 12-month period. If both spouses work for {Company} and are eligible for FMLA leave, the spouses will be limited to a total of 12 workweeks off between the two of them.

The maximum amount of FMLA Leave for a military caregiver is 26 workweeks in a single 12-month period. Leave may be taken on an intermittent or reduced schedule in some circumstances. When leave is needed for planned medical treatment, the employee must make a reasonable effort to schedule treatment so that it does not unduly disrupt the employer's operations.

12.2.3 Notice of FMLA Leave

If the need for leave is foreseeable, the employee should notify {Supervisor/Owner} 30 days prior to taking leave. If the need for leave arises unexpectedly, the employee should notify {Supervisor/Owner} as soon as practicable, giving as much notice as possible.

condition. Employees are expected to cooperate with the company in obtaining additional medical opinions.

Employees are expected to return to work immediately after completion of the requested FMLA leave, and employees who have taken leave for their own serious health condition must submit a fitness-for-duty certification before returning to work.

12.2.5 Use of Paid & Unpaid Leave

Under certain circumstances, the employee or the company may choose to use accrued paid leave concurrent with FMLA leave.

12.2.6 Benefits

{Company} will maintain group health insurance coverage for an employee on FMLA leave on the same terms as if the employee had continued work. Arrangements will be made for the employee to pay their share of health insurance premiums while on leave. The company may recover premiums paid to maintain health coverage for an employee who fails to return to work from FMLA leave.

If an employee would like the company to maintain other paid benefits during his or her leave, premiums and charges which are partially or entirely paid by the employee must continue to be paid by the employee during his or her leave.

FMLA leave will not result in the loss of any employment benefit accrued prior to the date on which the leave began. An employee on FMLA leave, however, does not continue to accrue benefits during his or her leave.

12.2.7 Reinstatement

After returning from FMLA leave, an employee will be restored to his or her original job or an equivalent job with equivalent benefits, pay, seniority, and other employment terms and conditions. If an employee does not return to work at the end of the requested FMLA leave and has not obtained an extension of leave, the company presumes the employee does not plan to return to work and has voluntarily terminated his or her employment.

12.3 MILITARY LEAVE

Employees called to active military duty, military reserve, or National Guard service may be eligible to receive time off under the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994. To receive time off, the employee must provide notice and a copy of his or her report orders to {Owner/Supervisor}. Military leave is granted on a {paid/unpaid} basis. Upon return with an honorable discharge, an employee is entitled to reinstatement and any applicable job benefits they would have received if present, to the extent provided by law.

Requests for time off must be made at least {two (2) weeks} in advance to {Owner/Supervisor}, who may approve or deny the request based on company resources and schedules. {Company} is flexible in approving time off, when doing so will not interfere with company operations.

A full-time employee is eligible for paid vacation after {one (1) month} of employment. Any employee may carry {five (5) days or 40 hours} into the next year.
